Second shift

From the path chosen at first shift, begin "Shoulder to Shoulder" training. Trainee should be shadowing from a safe distance. After they learn a station and are comfortable, the trainee should take over small amounts of responsibility from trainer so they can still be monitored. Slowly add more and more skills until station is fully learned.

Moving Forward

Since training is not hand-in-hand for the foreseeable future, we are asking that each station has a minimum two (2) days in training. New crew will not have the same learning opportunities as they had in the past because of the issues of distance needed. We need to allow them to have time to fully understand each station.
